

2018 Humanitarian Health Conference

The Art of Serving

*April 12 - 13, 2018
Kansas City, Missouri*

#2018HHC

Welcome

Ours seems to be an era of remarkable self-interest. Individuals tout their personal authority while governments tout their international domination. But in reality, self-interest has been preeminent since biblical times. Contrary to self-interest is the art of serving. The 2018 Humanitarian Health Conference will call us to reconsider not simply the priority of assisting others, but also the fine skill it may require.

Thank you for joining us in amplifying the value and ability to serve with excellence. During these precious two days, learn truly useful skills, connect with like-minded friends, and explore volunteer opportunities to especially express your own art of serving.

Speakers

Nicholas Comninellis, MD, MPH, DIMPH

Dr. Comninellis is President of INMED and board certified in both public health and family medicine. Nicholas trained in tropical medicine at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, and served four years in Shanghai, China, and Angola, Africa. Today he teaches public health at the University of Missouri-Kansas City.

Hayley Stolzle

Hayley Stolzle, MPH has over 10 years of experience in public health including experience in project management, health research, and health education initiatives in both clinical and community-based settings. Prior to her position with the CDC, Ms. Stolzle was a health promotion officer and health management capacity builder with the US Peace Corps in Tsabong, Botswana overseeing a national gender committee and multiple health education projects for the Kgalagadi South District Health Management Team.

Betsy Sutherland

Betsy Sutherland has been using her background in education and medicine to educate healthcare students and professionals on the facets of human trafficking for over three years. She received her BS in Education in 2008 and will complete her medical degree from St. Louis University School of Medicine in 2018.

Micah Flint, MPA, RN, DINPH

Micah Flint, MPA, RN, DINPH is the Chief Innovations Officer for INMED. Micah's expertise is in the fields of humanitarian relief, innovative entrepreneurship, and public health. He is the co-author of Disaster Response: Pocket Book for Volunteers, Overview of Disaster Management in Limited Resource Settings and has presented at national conferences. He is the founder of the annual INMED Humanitarian Health Conference.

Lori Clements

After living in Angola for 3 years, Lori Clements started a scholarship fund for Angolan college students encouraging them in their education—knowing that improvement of education will develop into improvement in society. During her time in Angola, her blogging on individual people resulted in life changing projects for the Blind Association. She was able to raise money to refurbish or build houses for widows, and to build store fronts for blind people to manage to create a sustainable living for their families.

Jay Grimwood

Jay Grimwood is the International Development Pastor at Graceway. Jay has led international pastoral/teacher training teams to South Korea, the Philippines, India, Nepal, and Egypt. He has also helped develop educational and humanitarian programs in Mongolia, Zambia, Japan, Taiwan, and Kurdistan.

Speakers

Elisha Katamura

Fred Loper, MD

Fred Loper, MD is a primary care physician in practice since 1979 with wide experience in volunteer medical missions. He enjoys the variety of general practice and considers it an honor to care for patients. He also likes to hang out with family, backpack, bicycle, and work on his old house.

Tim Myrick, MD

Tim Myrick, MD and his family have worked in various government hospitals and mission hospitals in diverse locations in Africa and the Middle East for the past 20 years. They have learned several languages and experienced valuable opportunities for service along the way. Dr. Myrick continues to serve refugees throughout the Middle East and Africa.

Glen Talboy, MD

Glenn Talboy, MD is the Chairman of Surgery at the University of Missouri – Kansas City and the Program Director for the general surgery residency program. “I have been involved in international surgical missions for 12 years and lead author on two surgical wound care chapters entitled, ‘Essentials of Surgery.’”

Jeff Palmer

Jeff Palmer has over 20 years of hands on experience in international development at the community level. He has learned much during this time and found that people working together can accomplish amazing things. Jeff is currently CEO of BGR, a Southern Baptist relief and development organization.

Judith LeMaster, RN

Judith LeMaster, RN is a UK trained nurse and midwife. She worked in Nepal for 15 years in medical missions, the last 10 with her American physician husband and two children. Judith and her family resettled in the USA in 2000, and have most recently been working with Bhutanese refugees in Kansas City.

Speakers

Stan Augustin, MD, FACS

Stan Augustin, MD, FACS completed his General Surgery Residency at University of Missouri-Kansas City School of Medicine. He completed Surgical Critical Care fellowship training at Barnes-Jewish Hospital. He is board certified in General Surgery and Surgical Critical Care. He has completed training in complex wound care and hyperbaric treatment.

Laura Captari

Laura Captari serves with Humanitarian Disaster Institute and is pursuing her doctorate in counseling psychology at the University of North Texas. Her research investigates factors that promote resilience, post-traumatic growth, and racial reconciliation. She has worked in North Africa and Eastern Europe and is the co-author of five books.

Lawand Abdulrahman, Ph.D

Lawand Abdulrahman is a Ph.D student at KU, Law School. He serves with the UNHCR providing legal counseling for complicated refugee cases at focal point for 4 camps. The camp services include providing food, shelter, health care and security conforming to international protection standard. They are also a focal point for deportation, registration, advocacy with local authority, and promoting sustainable solutions.

Commander Carl Huffman, PA-C

Commander Carl Huffman is a certified Physician Assistant and Medical Technologist. He has worked for the FDA for the past 17 years and is currently the drug supervisor for the Pharma Division 3 group. He has deployed for Katrina and the more recent Ebola outbreak and is considered an SME in pharmaceutical regulations and quality.

There are people living and dying without Jesus.

Do you want to see this change? We do.

From its earliest years, SIM has cared for and about those who live and die without hearing God's good news, compelling us into communities where He is least known. Over a century later our heart remains the same, now with around 4,000 multiskilled workers from 65 countries. Serving together on six continents, we pursue hard places through prayer and care as we respond to need, proclaim the gospel, and equip the Church.

SIM Healthcare Ministries invites you to pray about joining us in God's healing work among those broken in spirit, soul, and body as we share the good news through community health outreach, clinics, hospitals, and beyond.

There is no conflict of interest for anyone with the ability to control the content of this activity.

Successful completion of this activity requires:

- Check-in both days.
- Attendance to the presentations you self-selected (not all presentations offer CE). Partial credit is available.
- Participation through discussion, questions, and hands-on activities.
- Completion of conference evaluation and credit claims form.
- Evidence of completed online course prerequisite (if applicable).
- Completed check-off (if applicable).

Objectives:

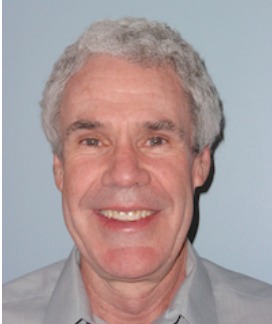

Not all presentations are accredited for continuing education. Please see the agenda for those presentations marked as not being accredited.

At the completion of this activity, I am able to:

- Discuss the art of serving those in need holistically.
- Analyze medicine as an art and not strictly science.
- Review evidence-based pediatric care in limited resource setting.
- Articulate the prevention, diagnosis, and management of common diseases of poverty.
- List priorities of triage in low resource settings.
- Articulate the diversity of careers in global health.
- Relate culture with health.
- Evaluate the role of development programs to mitigate human trafficking.
- Explain humanitarian relief strategies and challenges.
- Discuss the correlation between culture and faith.
- List steps to assessing and managing wound care with limited resources.
- Analyze the goals and outcomes of response vs. development strategies.
- Review best-practices in providing trauma induced mental health services.
- Assess the medical needs of refugees.
- Develop tools to mitigate compassion fatigue.
- Evaluate community assessment strategies and plans.
- Express the role of spiritual health assessments integrated into a history and physical.

2018 Awards

Fred Loper, MD, Comminellis Award for Compassionate Service To Humanity Award Recipient

As a medical student at the University of Oklahoma, Fred Loper was recruited to help start Good Shepherd Clinic in Oklahoma City – a ministry launched after a homeless man had his wound stitched by a bartender in a local tavern because he had nowhere else to go for treatment. Following graduation, Dr. Loper proceeded to lead the Baptist Medical Dental Fellowship for twelve years, facilitating healthcare in Guatemala, Dominican Republic, Ghana, and Cuba. 2012 through 2016, Dr. Loper was again at the helm of Good Shepherd Clinic, providing medical and dental care to low-income and uninsured people throughout central Oklahoma. In this context he also mentored students from University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center, who enjoyed the inspiring privilege of witnessing Dr. Loper's excellence in action.

Mary Smith, RN Cross-Cultural Healthcare Leadership Award Recipient

In 1988 Mary, a master's degree trained registered nurse, travelled with her Methodist church to Haiti. Motivated through this event, Mary herself lead multiple teams back to Haiti over the coming years. In 1999, while teaching nursing at Johnson Country Community College she began taking nursing students to Mexico where they provided care to those living in a squatter's community. That annual college trip continues even today. In 2009, Mary Smith made an exploration trip to Uganda. Thus, began annual visits to that nation as well, where for Ugandan nursing students and faculty she continues teaching Helping Babies Breathe – a skill set she acquired through INMED in 2010. Mary advises, "First just go to walk along side. As you do so, observe, learn, trust, respect, and let them teach you, too."

2018 Awards

James, RN, International Healthcare Healthcare Preceptor Award Recipient

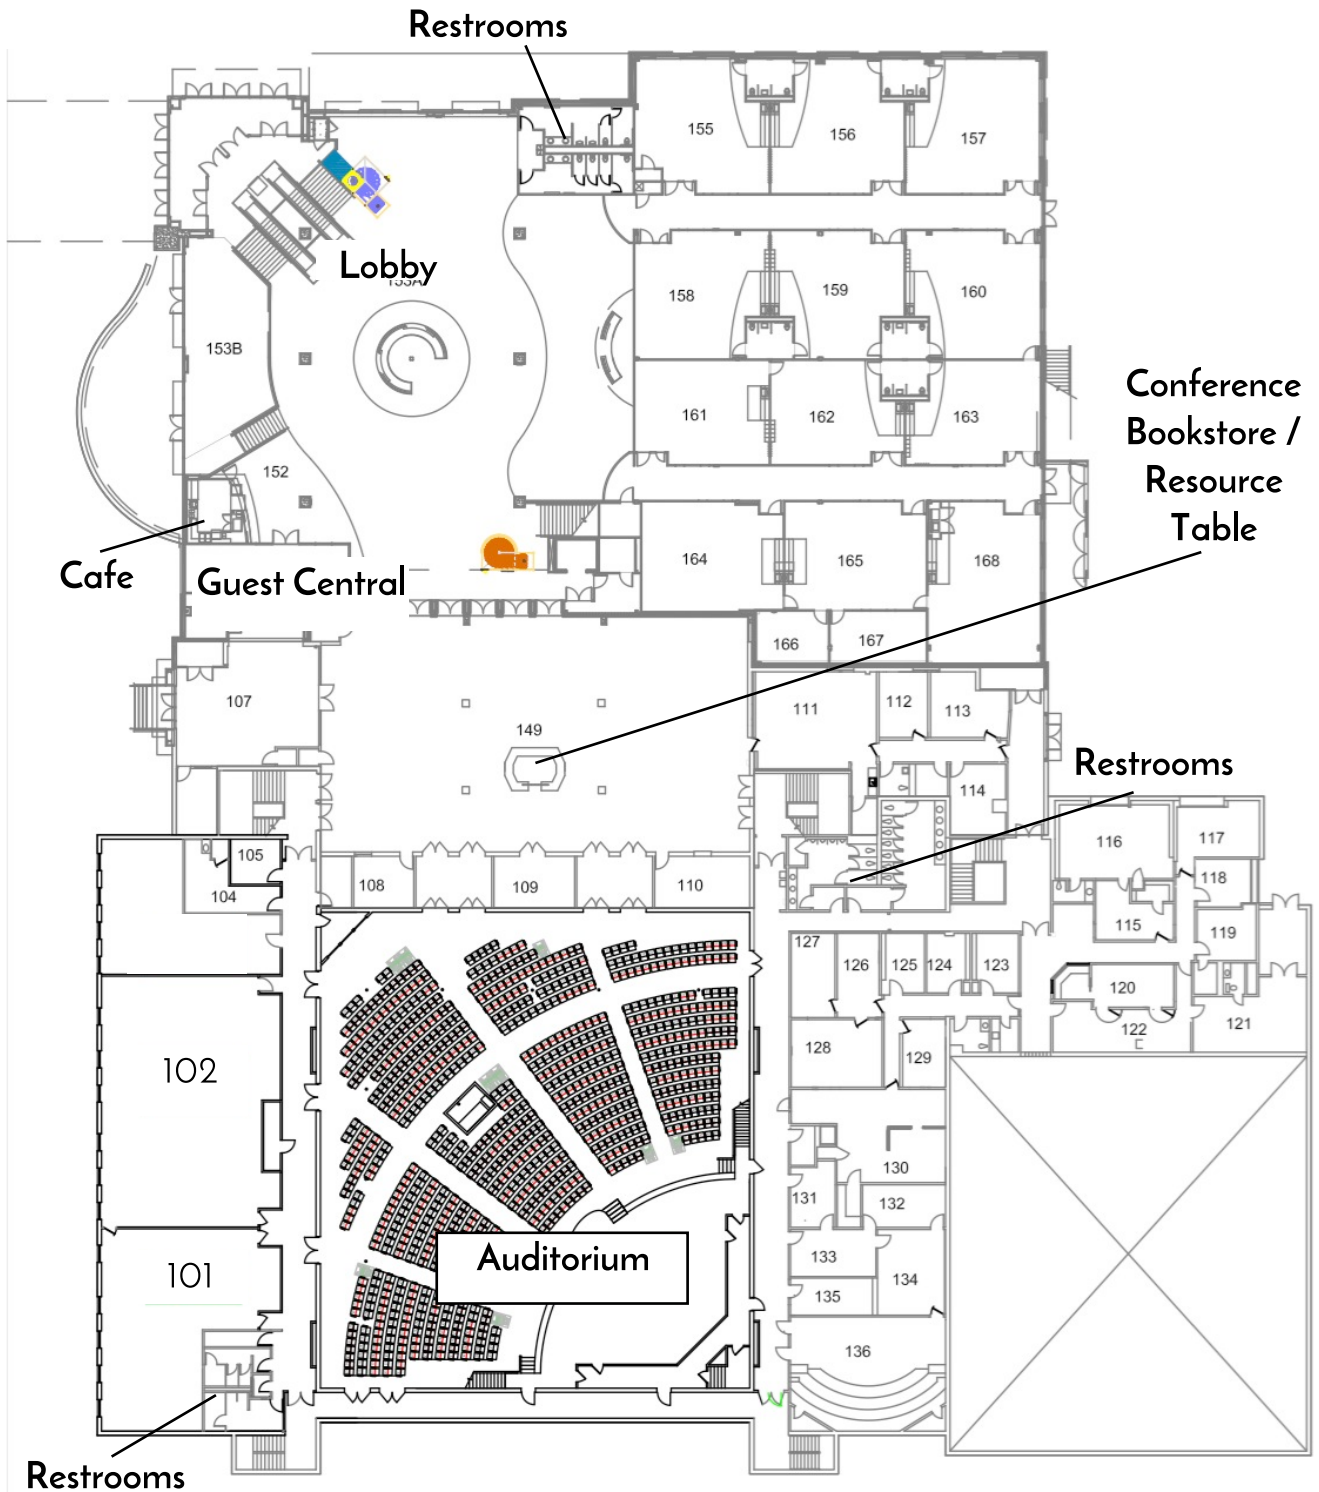

James, a Kansas City native, began his career as a youth pastor in El Salvador. James later qualified as a registered nurse, serving at Saint Luke's Hospital and North Kansas City Hospital. At the 2012 Humanitarian Health Conference James met representatives from a healthcare organization working in a remote location in Asia. In 2015, James and his wife Rosie moved to that nation with their two pre-school children. James main responsibility in Asia continues to be instructing and mentoring national nursing students to give quality care to their own people. James, who was a volunteer at the very first INMED Humanitarian Health Conference in 2006, is also today an INMED International Medicine Fellow.

Betsy Sutherland National Healthcare Service Award Recipient

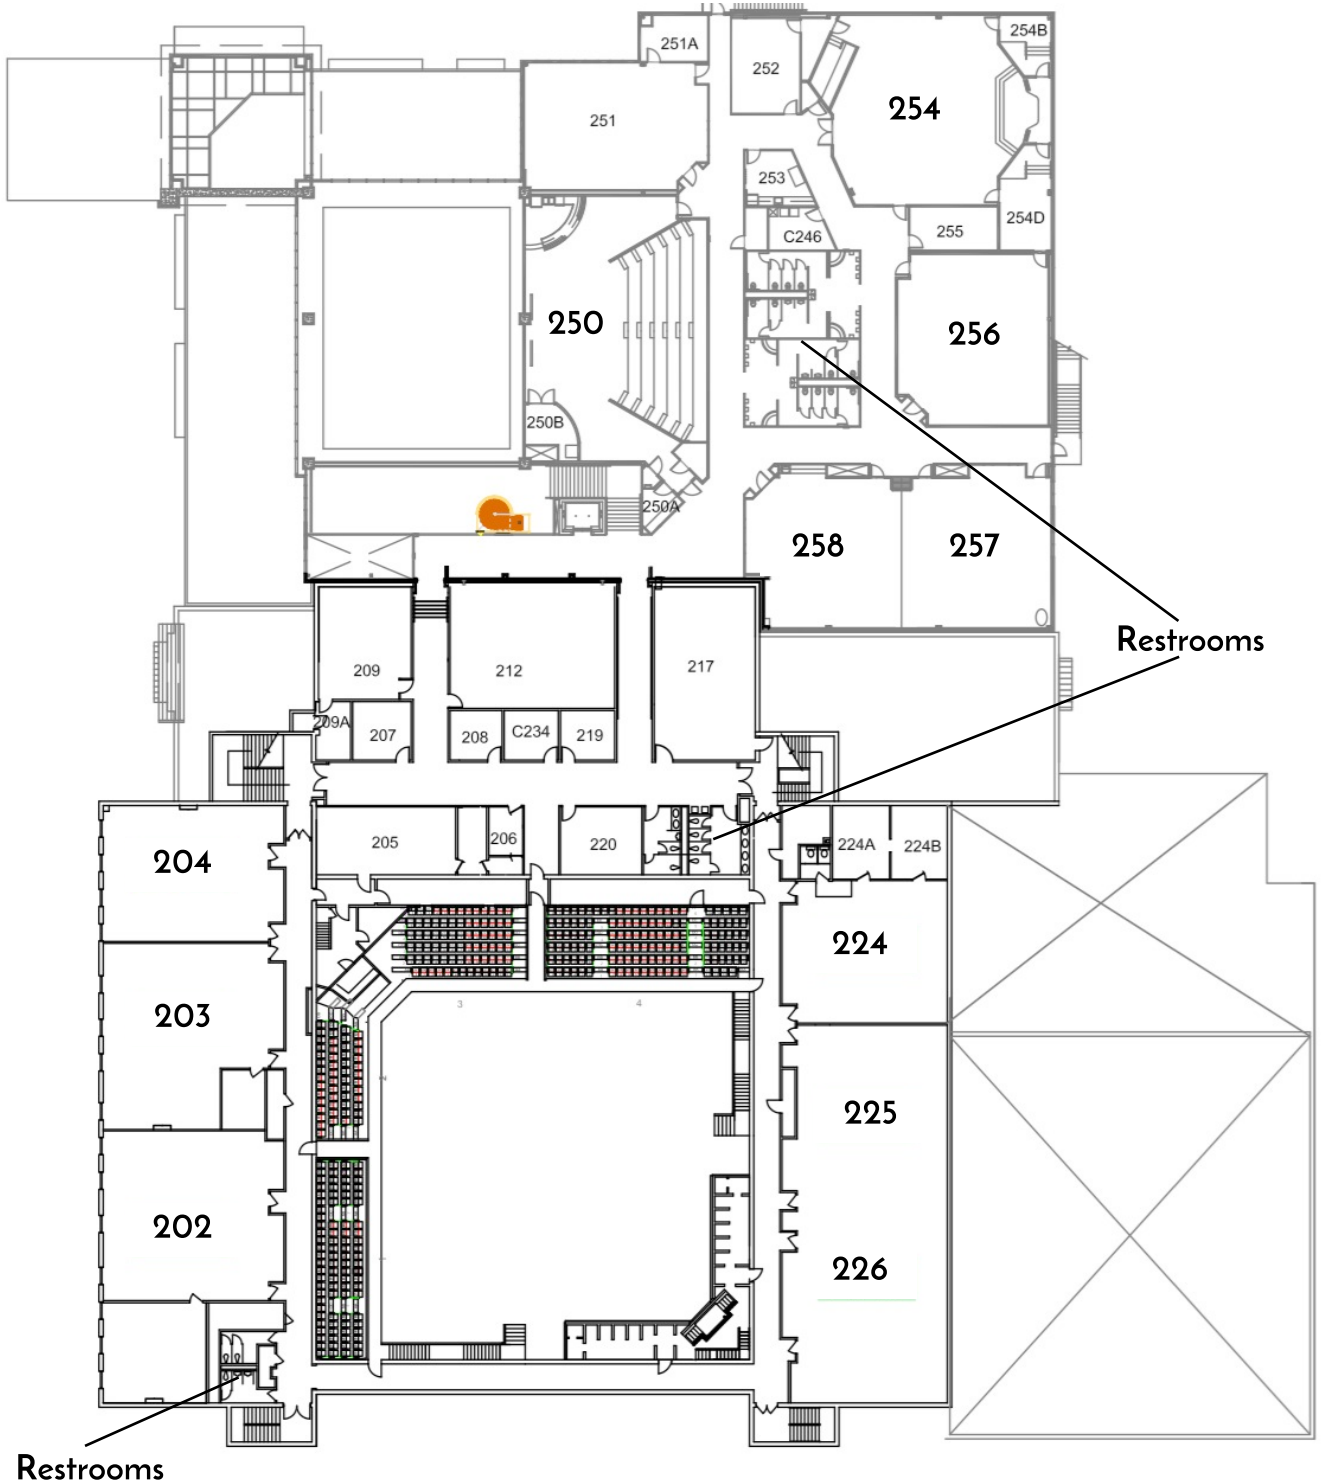

As an elementary school teacher, Betsy became absorbed over the tragedies surrounding human trafficking, including labor, sex and child trafficking. She carried these convictions into medical school at Saint Louis University, where her experience in education was quickly recognized by her peers within the anti-trafficking community. Betsy is connected with the Stop Human Trafficking Network where she leads small group, hands-on trafficking case simulations to help learners to rapidly recognize and respond to abusive situations. Watch for more advocacy and innovation from Betsy Sutherland in the next season of her life as a family physician in South Bend, Indiana.
